

SEWERAGE SYSTEM FOR WESTERLY

Recommended by Board of Trade Committee on Municipal Improvements—Project to be Further Investigated—

Walter Johnson Badly Gashed—Pawcatuck Club Members Not Likely to Favor License For Town of Stonington.

The superior court for Washington county, Judge Baker, has been engaged several days in the trial of the case of William P. Buffum and others against Henry R. Girard, an action in trespass. One of the questions involved in the determination of the southern line of the town of Exeter, as the deeds of the lot owned by Mr. Girard make the southern boundary line between Exeter and South Kingston. The town of Exeter was divided from North Kingston in 1742, and in 1757 Robert Hazard of South Kingston and John Reynolds, Jr., of Exeter were a commission of the general assembly to establish a line between the two towns. Since then there has been no survey of the town lines.

The plaintiffs claim a small piece of their land, 100 by 130 feet, area, was cut over and 13 trees cut, and they also charge that Girard in cutting off this lot carted the lumber over their land and caused damage.

The defendant claims he has not cut over any of Buffum's land, and declares he purchased to an old wall, which he says is the boundary line. Amos E. Whitford, who sold the property to Girard, made the same statement and said that the wall was pointed out to him as the line by the party from whom he purchased. Considerable expert testimony was given as to the alleged damage and two surveys were taken.

The plaintiffs seek to recover under the law which grants three times the actual damage for cutting and destroying the wood upon the land of another.

The case of Orville G. Barber against the Watch Hill fire district in regard to the removal of a building in Bay street was continued.

A motion was entered for a new trial of the case of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown against Charles C. Taft of the New Park hotel, in which the jury found the defendant guilty of keeping liquor for sale to the public.

The case of John G. Clark, administrator, against Attmore Robinson, which has been on the docket since March 16, 1912, was discontinued. The case had to do with the settlement of the estate of Jonathan M. Hazard of South Kingston, and the parties to the suit have been dead several years.

Public interest in the inauguration of a sewerage system for Westery was renewed at the regular meeting of the Board of Trade when Frederick C. Buffum, chairman of the committee on municipal improvements, made a report of the preliminary steps taken by the committee in consultation with an expert on sewerage systems. He said the committee had made a thorough investigation of the sewerage problem and believed that when the matter was presented in detail, together with the estimated cost and a method of financing the project, that the people of Westery would be in favor of the introduction of a proper system of sewerage and with the least possible delay.

Civil Engineer Thomas McKenize who made a survey relative to a sewer system for Westery nine years ago, gave an interesting talk on the important subject. He dwelt on the fact that provided for chemical treatment of the sewage and which was in operation in Worcester and elsewhere, made a report of the preliminary steps taken by the committee in consultation with an expert on sewerage systems. He said the committee had made a thorough investigation of the sewerage problem and believed that when the matter was presented in detail, together with the estimated cost and a method of financing the project, that the people of Westery would be in favor of the introduction of a proper system of sewerage and with the least possible delay.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in quinine and a natural pine element which acts as a healing to the throat. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and sugar syrup (or strain honey) has proven as powerful throughout the United States and Canada. It is often mistaken for the old, old, old formula of a sugar syrup and a few drops of Pinex. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. Write for this recipe. at the time of the plans and estimates of the sewerage system. After a general discussion favorable to a system of sewerage for Westery, it was voted that Frederick C. Buffum and Thomas McKenize of the municipal improvement committee and Dr. John Champlin of the health committee be a committee to investigate at the expense of the Board of Trade the sewerage system in Worcester and other places and to gather information on the subject so as to intelligently decide which method in their opinion would be best for Westery.

President Albert R. Sullivan presided at the meeting and there was a large attendance. Under supervision of the rules, D. O. Earle and W. W. Bromley were admitted to membership.

Dr. John F. Champlin, chairman of the committee on manufactures, reported that many inquiries in regard to inducements for location were received from many prospective industries, and those worthy were receiving proper consideration and investigation.

Secretary Samuel H. Davis and Clifford W. Campbell, delegates to the international congress of chambers of commerce and kindred organizations, made interesting and lengthy reports of the proceedings.

Just prior to adjournment there was a general discussion as to the desirability of paving Broad street, but no action was taken.

The brave soldier boys of an imaginary invading army will hike from Fort Mansfield along the line of the Pawcatuck river and cross the bridge into Connecticut on Thursday morning. They will be in regular marching order, with the vicinity of Stony Brook as destination, where it is planned to battle with some of their comrades who are to act as an army of defense. There will be 12 companies of coast artillery manœuvring as infantrymen in the three days of warlike exercises. The invading force is composed of eight companies, and four companies will form the defense.

Walter Johnson, employed in the Broadfoot bakery, Canal street, received a painful injury while attempting to unlock the door of the bakery early Wednesday morning. He adjusted the key, but it did not work in the lock, and in forcing the door he turned his hand slipped and went through a pane of glass in the door. A gash four inches long was cut in his left hand and the tendon of his index finger severed. He was taken to the office of Dr. John L. May, just across the street, where he received medical and surgical treatment.

The tendons were connected so that the index finger could be controlled, and then several stitches were taken to close the wound in the hand. By the exercise of care for a time the tendons may be strengthened sufficient to perform the customary part of the human machinery, should they break and the finger drop and become useless, an operation extending back to the fact that the wound was necessary.

The fact that the vote on liquor license has been injected into the election in the town of Stonington will result in the polling of a large vote, and the license question has really become the chief factor in the election. It has been the rule on this question, as goes Pawcatuck, so goes the rest of the town of Stonington. Both sides have shown unusual activity and the license advocates claim that careful canvass shows that a majority of the voters are not opposed to the use of intoxicating drinks, but that does not signify that they will vote in favor of license.

There are a number of clubs in the town under different names, but they are in reality drinking clubs—places where the members can take their friends and buy as many drinks of the intoxicating as their desire or cash warrants. It is therefore probable that these club members will not vote in favor of license in order to protect their club interests. This class of voters will not openly fuse with the prohibitionists, but will be with them in the battle against license.

The public evening school will open next Tuesday evening.

The Republicans of Westery will hold their caucus this evening.

The republican town committee has decided to make no recommendation of candidates to the caucus.

The comfort station in Wilcox park is to be heated by a gas and water system and independent from any other. The plan to heat from the Colonial clubhouse boilers has been abandoned as being inadequate.

Alcohol In Pe-ru-na= An Unjust Criticism

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

Having a little business in one of the federal offices of the city, after it was finished I fell in conversation with the official in charge concerning Peruna. I mention his business to show that the conversation was conducted with a man of more than ordinary intelligence, being an employee of the government who had passed through several civil service examinations. He said to me, not knowing who I was: "I think a great deal of this patent medicine business ought to be stopped. Especially such remedies as Peruna. Peruna, as you know, is a stimulant and contains eighteen or twenty per cent. of alcohol. People take it without knowing what it is, and such remedies ought to be prohibited by law. My own mother took Peruna once. She had a cough, night sweats, was growing emaciated and weak. Several doctors examined her. The opinion was expressed several times that she was going into consumption. One thought it was chronic bronchitis. At any rate, her condition was quite serious. She was unable to get any relief from the doctors she consulted, although she took their medicines faithfully for nearly a year. Some one told her about Peruna, and against my wish and against the wishes of our family, she began taking it. At once she improved, and in less than six months she appeared as well. We did all we could to discourage her in taking Peruna, but she persisted. It finally came out in the magazines that Peruna contained alcohol. Then we knew at once what it was that benefited my mother; it was simply the alcohol that Peruna contained. We had the laugh on mother. We have not ceased to make fun of her yet about her being cured with a dilution of alcohol. She seems to be very stubborn. She says that if she were to be sick in the same way again she would certainly get Peruna and take it, alcohol or no alcohol. So you see if people will persist in such foolishness there ought to be a law to prevent them."

I ventured to interpose a question: "You say the doctors could not cure her, and yet you say Peruna did cure her. What difference does it make to you whether it was alcohol or some other drug that effected the cure?" "Well, I don't know that it makes any difference, but it is deceiving the people to give them alcohol even though it does cure them," he said. I replied: "Why, I cannot exactly understand that. Alcohol is a drug, the same as quinine or morphine. If alcohol cures certain diseases where is the deception? I understand that the Peruna people print on the label of each bottle the per cent. of alcohol contained in Peruna. Each patient may read it, if he pleases. I cannot see where there is any deception."

"Well, I would not take Peruna," he persisted. "Now, I was sick, I had a stomach disease. A violent pain, that would come on about an hour or two after each meal. It grew worse and worse. The doctors could not cure me. I consulted several doctors in our city about my health. I went to see a prominent specialist in New York City, paid out a great deal of money, but he said, 'I would advise you to take a glass of lager beer before each meal. I think that will cure you.' Having followed the directions of several good physicians without any assistance, I thought I would try the beer. In a very short time I found it was helping me, and I got entirely well. My bowels became regular and I had no more pain. No more distress after meals. Now, if my mother had used some remedy like that, it would be all right. But to persist in using some secret remedy like Peruna, I think it is outrageous."

Again I ventured to ask some questions. I asked: "What do you suppose it was in the lager beer that effected the cure?" "Why, I presume it was the stimulant it contained. Yes, no doubt it was the stimulant."

"You know, of course, that the stimulant in beer is alcohol, the same as in wine or whiskey or any other alcohol drink?"

"Yes, I have heard say that beer contains about five per cent. of alcohol."

"That is correct," I replied. "You took a bottle of beer before each meal, did you?"

"In doing so you were drinking a pint of a five per cent. solution of alcohol."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"Five per cent. would be one-twentieth. As each pint contains sixteen ounces you were then taking a little less than an ounce of alcohol before each meal."

"But you objected to your mother's taking alcohol in the Peruna, and yet she was taking far less alcohol than you were. As I understand it, the dose of Peruna is one tablespoonful. Supposing it to be twenty per cent. alcohol, there would be in each dose one-fifth of a tablespoonful of alcohol, which would be about half a teaspoonful, while you were taking at least four teaspoonfuls of alcohol in your bottle of beer. And yet you objected to your mother's taking Peruna on the ground that the Peruna contains alcohol. In my opinion it was the alcohol that cured both of you. Your mother evidently was cured of a very serious ailment. Peruna contains alcohol. It was undoubtedly the alcohol that cured her, at least helped to. The other ingredients of Peruna might have assisted, no doubt did. In your case it was the alcohol in the beer that cured you of the stomach difficulty. Peruna has cured thousands of such cases."

"Well, I declare," he replied. "I never thought of it in that way before. There has been so much said about alcohol being poisonous that I suppose my mind has been prejudiced against it. But if as you say there is also alcohol in beer, the same kind of alcohol as is used in Peruna, I cannot see where the difference is myself."

"Well," I replied, "you have been doing exactly what the average man and woman is doing. You have allowed your mind to become prejudiced against Peruna on account of its containing alcohol. Without stopping to look into the matter at all you have assumed that there is something terribly disreputable about remedies containing alcohol. The fact is, however, that most of all field medicines, whether prescribed by a doctor or put up as a patent medicine, contain a certain amount of alcohol. It was alcohol that cured your mother. It was alcohol that cured you. In my opinion, alcohol in some form or other is making more cures than all other drugs combined. This is not saying, however, that Peruna contains only alcohol, for it does contain excellent besides alcohol. But I do contend that the alcohol in Peruna is not only not harmful to those who take it, but if taken in the doses prescribed on the bottle it will do a great deal of good, and there is not the slightest danger of forming a drug habit."
